Lift a line

I'm raising a virtual chicken

Forewell, ancient virtual chicken - hello, baby virtual duck

My hands are both gigantic, they're how I've gained my fame.

* Why the invisible can not be seen lightning counter zaps

Why the invisible cant be seen, who could honestly say, Maybe it has to do with the neighbors cow eating everything but his dog gone hay.
_{its naturally}

Why can't the invisible be seen? It can't be that plain and clear, Does it show any emotion, Does it express any bits of fear?
- invisible

If I could catch a glimpse of invisible, now I ~~What~~ I'd see, a whole bunch of emptiness yet so open and so free.

→ If invisible really exists, then why does it always hide?
Is it some intimidating creature or is it really the human kind?

H.W.

Emptiness is open and free, a big gaping hole in our parallel universe. What is empty? Is it the unfilled plastic bag in the waste basket or the chipping feeling in a heart that's just lost someone close. Is empty really nothing? Or is it actually something? Is there anything that is truly nothing? I'd guess emptiness but then again emptiness is something.
What does empty feel like? Is it soft and cuddly or rough and tiddid. One thing I do know is the empty is never full so it will shelter anything. Emptiness is a magical, that is always open & free.
